THE FLAG

Governor Coolidge of Massachusetts, in issuing his proclamation for the observance of Flag Day on June 14, said that it "is time to realize that all those who disregard the law or resist the authority of the government are disloyal to the flag. While the flag of America has become the newest in symbol," says the governor. "In certain fundamental principles it represents there can be no advance for there is no beyond. It is a flag of a people who have arrived. It must be the flag of a people who have the determination to remain. It stands for order and liberty, for freedom of the human hand and the human mind, free speech, free press, free church, it means that property and life and honor shall be inviolate and it recognizes the duty of the people to protect each other in the security of these rights and that all experience and all reason demonstrate that the sole source of such protection is in government according to law. Unless it be the symbol of the law administered by a government which has the disposition and the strength to be supreme all the meaning and the glory of the flag fade away and all reverence for it perishes. It is time to realize that all those who disregard the law or resist the authority of government are disloyal to the flag. Whatever their motive or their station they seek the destruction of all the flag represents."

The meaning of the Republican platform regarding the league of nations may be obscure to some great editors, but it exactly suits multitudes of American voters, republican and democrat. The concluding sentence is especially very clear: "We should leave our country FREE to develop its civilization along the line most conducive to the happiness and welfare of the people, and cast its influence on the side of justice and right should occasion require." Plain words, are they not, and plain meaning.

The Probe is the title of a labor journal published at Nashville, which reaches this desk. It arraigns Gov. Roberts' tax machine heavily, and charges $68,000 squandered under a codicil tacked to the tax law. A two-column article pours it to Gov. Roberts in no uncertain terms. The News has long been of the opinion that this new scheme of taxation, at supposedly actual value, is a costly piece of business, and the source of confusion and discontent as long as allowed to continue, and not fair to every taxpayer.

REVERE AGAIN.

"We wish there were more real patriots than there are and Paul Revere also," the South Pittsburg Hustler willing, "enumerates the Sequatchie Valley News, with praiseworthy fervor. The South Pittsburg Hustler is willing enough. We don't know what particular brand of patriot was Paul Revere, but our recollection is that at first approach of the enemy he jumped on a horse and rode away to tell the other fellows to go to the front and fight. We find no record in Revolutionary War history that Revere, or any of his progeny, figured in that conflict in any other fashion. This brand of patriotism evidently commends itself to the Sequatchie Valley News.—South Pittsburg Hustler.

What crass ignorance! If you "don't" know, why don't you find out? Revere was under orders from Warren, of the Committee of Safety, to alarm the country that the British were enroute to Lexington and Concord to seize the arms and ammunition known to be stored there by the patriots. And it was a dangerous mission for the roads were patrolled. Another messenger, William Dawes, was another patriot sent out on the same mission, which, according to the Hustler, was to "ride away and tell the other fellows to go to the front and fight." Dawes had the longer route and the safest. Revere arrived at Lexington at midnight and half an hour later was joined there by Dawes, and soon after both rode away for Concord, accompanied by Dr. Samuel Prescott. Half way to Concord they were stopped by a picket of British officers, Revere's second experience with the enemy that night as he had been nearly captured a half mile from Charleston Eeck, and this time he was captured, and interrogated with a pistol to his head and threat to blow his brains out if he does not give a true answer. He boldly avows his errand and tells them they are as good as dead men. His captors growing uneasy take him back towards Lexington and cutting the saddle girths of his horse release him, and he returns across the fields to Clark's house in Lexington, and it is supposed he took part in the fighting that day if he got anything to shoot with, as he seems not to have been a craven.

The reason why he was sent by Warren was two-fold, there were no telephone or telegraph lines, nor even the South Pittsburg Hustler, so he had to send a man "to ride away and tell the other fellows to go to the front and fight." If the Hustler had been in existence then, it would not have been hardly necessary to have sent out a messenger to alarm the "embattled farmers" as they would have "seen it in the Hustler." Warren's mistake seems to be that he and Revere and Dawes did not get in the road and shoot down the British themselves. There were only about 800 of them, and that would have only been 266 a-piece, by capturing the other two, as they couldn't slaughter two-thirds of a man each.

The South Pittsburg Hustler was recently growling that we had lost our independence. The Hustler will please note that the only announcement we have had in our announcement columns since March have been from democratic candidates. Republican announcements for some reason have been conspicuous for their absence, but we note the Hustler has had them all the while. Can it be it has lost its independence?

Vice President Marshall says: "I am an old man who has torn his hair for Bryan, slaved for Parker and done his hardest for Wilson, and I am about ready to retire from politics." Having performed those thrilling and unremunerative duties, the Vice President is entitled to be placed on retired list. There will be many other Democrats to join him

With one of the most abundant sugar crops in the history of the world, and with a chance—now forfeited—to provide an ample supply for everybody at a low price, the country may be put on a sugar ration basis, just as in the dark days of the war, with prices actually a good deal higher than they were then. That is one of the conditions, as we reiterate elsewhere, for which the nation is indebted to President Wilson and his God-given Attorney General—Harvey's Weekly.

A lot of arrests for drunkenness with heavy fines and jail sentences would curb the mean liquor imbibation. The sheriff of this county and deputies are asked to make these arrests without waiting for disgusted citizens to swear out warrants. It is their right to do so in the interest of law and order. Some people, republicans and democrats alike, are commenting on this disorder.

If the democrats will now hand W. J. Bryan the same wallop that Hyman Johnson got in Chicago, the whole country will conclude that American politics is not so bad after all.—South Pittsburg Hustler.

If W. J. Bryan gets the same wallop the San Francisco convention will endorse the prohibition laws and that would be undemocratic, according to Cox, Edwards, et al.

While the country seems to be troubled and divided on the real meaning of President Wilson's Covenant of the League of Nations, let the voters remember that it means the tearing down of the protection principle by which the entire country has grown strong, and the farmers and thousands of small manufacturers throughout the west, have prospered.

By the selection of Warren G. Harding as the candidate of the Republican party for the high office of President and Calvin Coolidge for Vice President the convention at Chicago has reached a happy solution of the difficulties that confronted it.—Philadelphia Enquirer.

There is a platform of principles upon which any loyal American may stand proudly. A worthy ticket, a winning ticket, has been nominated. America expects every Republican to do his, or her, duty in this crisis which means so much.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Washington, having no children, was called the father of his country. Harding, having none, perhaps aspires to be its stepdaddy.—Nashville Tennessean.

Gosh! What went those democrats say next!

Even the Earth quakes at the approach of the democrats.

FAILURE DENIED.

Dealing again in his accustomed superlative Chairman Cummings of the Democratic national committee says that the Republican legislative program has been "the most complete and lamentable failure in the history of the country."

Well let us see. If saving the people over a billion dollars from the money demanded by a Democratic administration for running the government spells failure then Republicans must plead guilty.

Likewise, if the preservation of our national sovereignty from the machinations of an internationalist president is open to censure then the Republicans are at fault.

If the passage of a bill restoring the railroads to their rightful owners, and rescuing the government from a situation that was running it in debt over $500,000,000 a year, is a short coming, then the Republicans are to blame.

If the enactment of a budget law and an army reorganization law, all of which will soon be accomplished facts, as well as scores of other laws affecting in varying degrees the welfare of the American people, constitute official incompetency then the Republicans stand convicted. But the people have observed the record being made day to day by the Republican Congress and have reached a conclusion different from that reached by the Democratic chairman.—National Republican.

Also the daylight saving law, a most insidious attempt to enslave Americans.

We commend the action of Judge Brewer in refunding the license unjustly collected from the church picnic here Thursday. The booze vendor is the one to get after, not the church.

McAdoo announces that he has no idea of McAdooding the country, and everybody heaves a sigh of relief.

November is coming.

Alabama Minister Relieved

Stomach Troubles Made Him Feel Sick at Meal Times, But Now Always Enjoys His Meals.

DO YOU enjoy your meals? Eat without the dread of the after-effects:
Lack of appetite, and a disagreeable, sick-at-the-stomach feeling after meals, usually indicate that your digestive organs are not working properly. As a result, you will feel weak, lose weight and lack the energy that is to be derived from well-digested food.
A valuable help in correcting such conditions is mentioned by the Rev. E. K. McKenzie, of Route 1, Section,

Ala., who writes: "I had stomach trouble. When I would go to eat, I would turn sick. I took one bottle of Ziron, and it cured me. Am always ready for my meals and enjoy them. I think it is a fine medicine."
If your food hurts you, if your appetite is poor, if you are pale, weak and run-down, and have other symptoms that indicate your system needs help, try Ziron. It will put iron into your blood and help build you up. Take it according to directions, and if not benefited by the first bottle, the money-back guarantee will protect you. Ask your druggist.

INDIAN EX-CRIMINALS SPIN SALVATION WITH SILKEN THREAD

Hindoo woman reeling silk under Salvation Army care. (Insert) Former criminal chief who has been led to better ways by the Salvationists.

Silk, silk and salvation form a combination that is working miracles beneath the tropic sun of India. Sin has rocked in the very cradles of the criminal tribesmen for centuries. That same vicious system of caste which has sentenced the son of a weaver to weave and the son of a storekeeper to keep store has through ages condemned the son of a criminal tribesman to rustle cattle, pillage and commit murder.

But now the Salvation Army by using silk to take the sin out of the "criminal" is bringing about both the material and spiritual salvation of a people.

These criminal tribesmen, gathered into settlements by the British government, were taken in hand by the Salvationists, were taught to care for the mulberry trees, to rear the silk worms, to reel and weave the silk. They have ceased to be criminals. They have become expert weavers, and they like their new jobs. They work at them more industriously than they ever did at banditry. And they are now reeling and weaving more than a ton of raw silk a month.

In each country the Salvation Army adapts its methods to the peculiar needs. Here in the United States it does a great work among the prisoners in penitentiaries. It maintains nurseries in the slums, rescue homes and maternity hospitals, industrial and Americanization centers and institutions of many other kinds. To support these during next year the Army will ask the people of this country to contribute $10,000,000 during its 1920 Home Service appeal from May 10 to May 29.

Big Lick

Special to the News.

Dear editor of the News, I am glad to tell you that the good News is coming regularly now. Don't let 'er stop coming as long as you can find paper. Let me know when my subscription expires so I can prepare for its continuance.

Hit 'em again, "Lone Star," if they don't suit you.

"Lone Star," I sympathize with you, for I was once a Lone Star. Hope your eyes are better.

I am getting very anxious about "Tennessean." Someone of you fellows out west, please see if he is still sticking in the duck pond, car and all.

Well, Big Lick is enjoying a lovely rain today.

Mrs. Wayman Turner and boys, of Jasper, are visiting here as the guests of Mrs. Turner's father, Rev. J. B. Cobble.

Glad to learn of the industries that are being inaugurated in Marion county.

Come on, all you correspondents with news for the readers.

Children's Day will be observed at Oak Grove (Big Lick) the 27th. A grand time is expected as Big Lick folks don't do things by halves.

If any of you readers see Atty. J. W. Morrison at Jasper, tell him there is a man at this place said he used to know him and would be tickled to see him or hear from him.

Wake up, Saylorville, and give us the news from your burg.

May Bee.

BROOKS-TATE

Miss Sarah Van Tate was quietly married to Mr. James Brooks, at her Nashville home June 12th. Miss Van Tate was a citizen of Beersheba Springs, Tenn., until the past seven years she made her home in Nashville, where she has won many friends. Her many friends of Nashville and also Beersheba wish her a long and happy life.

James Brooks served three years in the U. S. Army. He is a citizen of Albion, New York. Mr. and Mrs. Brooks will remain in Nashville for a few weeks, and then leave for Cleveland, Ohio., where they will live a short while. Mr. and Mrs. Brooks will make their future home in Albion, New York. Nashville friends wished for them along and successful life. The bride wore a dress of pink organdy, and her bouquet were pink roses.—Mrs. Grundy, Tracy City.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.
We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, etc.
